*Cultivating Culture:
the Cream or the Crock*

Thursday

getting the basics right

Who should attend

Public & private sector executives and managers, fraud control and corruption prevention practitioners, human resources specialists, investigative journalists, ethicists, concerned citizens, internal auditors, risk management specialists, investigators, lawyers, accountants and other professionals.

Organisational culture is a critical factor that influences the risk of fraud & corruption flourishing ... the human element becomes tribal as individuals align their values with those demonstrated by their supervisors and peers.

Humans are, after all, are 'only human' and opportunities for fraud and corruption to blossom prevail where the organisation's culture is not right.

But where does the right culture come from and how can it be compelled to stay?

This timely and important conference goes back to basics that are far too often forgotten in the pursuit of new ways of preventing, detecting and investigating fraud & corruption.

Just when you think all the tools and techniques are in place and there is time to relax, another storm cloud rushes over the horizon ... to remind you ... to go back to basics ... and get the culture right.

Providing opportunities for those involved in corruption prevention and fraud control to learn from each other

What is the Corruption Prevention Network (CPN)?

"Help each other" is the catchcry of the CPN - administered by a group of elected voluntary public officials practising fraud control and corruption prevention. The Audit Office of NSW, NSW Independent Commission Against Corruption, NSW Ombudsman and the NSW Police provide support.

The CPN seeks to broaden its contact base and welcomes participation in the CPN e-mail Forum by anybody in Australia and internationally, both from the private and public sector, who is interested in fraud control and corruption prevention. The CPN mission is primarily achieved by:

- conducting public forums
- operating an e-mail discussion forum
- publishing newsletters
- providing access to corruption prevention resources
- maintaining www.corruptionprevention.net
- establishing strategic links with organisations having interests aligned with the CPN mission
